The 30-minute tribal knowledge audit

No software. No consultant. One client, one person, one inbox.

Swipe →

MAKSIM NAVALNYI · FOUNDER, AXION SHIPPING

Why

Everyone agrees it's a risk. Few have measured it.

Not because it's hard. Because nobody knows where to start.

01

Pick one top client and the person who owns the account

Don't try to do the whole company. One client is enough to see the pattern.

02

Search the sent folder for that client, last 90 days

Write down every promise, exception and special term you find.

03

Ask the owner one question

“What do you know about this client that isn't in any email?” Write it all down.

04

Check where each item lives

TMS, CRM or contract: yes or no. Be strict. “Somewhere in a thread” is a no.

05

Count the no's

That's your knowledge risk for one client. Now multiply by your top 20.

It's a map, not a blame list.

Comment BRAIN and I'll send you the checklist that goes with it.

MAKSIM NAVALNYI · FOUNDER, AXION SHIPPING